It will show an increase of $2,000,000 worth of improvements, when compared with that of last year. The character of the houses built were mostly small dwellings, and reports from the investors show that the houses found ready purchasers and tenants. The improvements were largely in the northeast and southeast sections. There were about 1,000 more permits issued than in the preceding year. The inspector, judging from the experiences of past years, feels inclined to believe that there will be no decrease in the building boom. So long as investors find sales and rentals of their property to be an easy matter, just so long will they be encouraged to build. P. H. Sheeboy, 2028 Seventh street, in letter to the commissioners says that he owns 146 lots in Montello, part of which is assessey by lots and part by acre, and that the assessment of eleven and one-half acres is wrong. Dr. Tindall, jr., answering for the commissioners, says that the county books show that a subdivision in 1875 of Montello was numbered from 1 to 25. In 1880 part of block 12, all of 13 and 16, part 17 and 19, 20, 22, and 23 was resubdivided, and is known as "Rosemont," containing eleven and one-half acres, assessed to S. S. Loomis, trustee, &c. Mr. P. H. Sheeboy has purchased under the original subdivision a part of this eleven and one-half acres, but what part I am unable to show. The taxes on the entire eleven and one-half acres should be paid, the distribution to be made by the parties owning, and a new subdivision put on record. the assessment of eleven and one-half acres east corner North Capitol street and P street; southwest corner New Jerser avenue and Q street; northeast corner Seventh and O streets; northeast corner Seventh and L streets; southeast corner Seventh and M streets; northwest corner Ninth and M streets; northwest corner Tenth and P streets; southeast corner Tenth and P streets; southeast corner Tenth and P streets; southeast corner Fourteenth and P streets; northeast corner Fourteenth and P streets; northwest corner Seventeenth and P streets; southeast corner Connecticut avenue and Q street; one on Q street, near Connecticut avenue.

The question of wool or cotton underwear has been agitated of late. WOOL, says the physician. We knew the era of wool underwear was at hand (it has long been in vogue in England and Germany), and have secured the agency for the patent cashmere wool underwear. Th English have succeeded in producing underwear of cashmere wool that, while it will not irritate the skin, has al the virtue of medicated (so-called) wool. This underwear is produced in pretty shades of blues, grays, browns, and reds, and a shade termed "gold" is pretty. The colors are fast. Of course all wool will shrink. It would be an insult to your intelligence to write otherwise, but with careful washing the shrinkage will be overcome by the elasticity of this prepared wool. We quote below the opinion of an eminent physician. We also give list of prices:

A PHYSICIAN'S OPINION.

The following is a reply to a reporter who rucstioned the merits of Woolen Underwear : "The use of linen and cotton for underwear is one of the commonest of all errors in this country. Now in Germany we have a move ment which is called the German School of Clothing Reform. It aims to replace cutton and linen with woolen goods. There are many reasons why this should be done. Wool many reasons why this should be done. Wool exercises a stimulating effect upon the skin, unlike linen and cotton, and consequently promotes the proper ection of the pores, glands, and superficial tissues. It is a non-conductor of heat, and preserves the normal temperature of the body. It allows a freur escape of the perspiration, and thus lowers, by evaporation, any abtornal temperature of the body, and facilitates the loss of excessive heat. Also, through its non-conductivity of heat, it preserves the normal measure of warmth. Hence it is a better protection against the extremes of either heat or cold than linen or cotton."

"Wool is electrical, while linen and cotton are not. Wool can excit electricity, but does not conduct it. Therefore a body clothed in weol lorse less of its animal electricity, while fresh electricity is excited on the surfaces. The intimate relationship between galvanir, nervous, and vital forces render this peculiarity of the greatest importance to the wearer."
